

Diploma thesis "Problems of further training in public administration in the Czech Republic" deals with the problems of civil servants training, particular attention is paid to the training system in the municipal authorities. The thesis gives a brief overview of the evolution of public administration reform, within the educational policy for public administration emerged. The current system of further training, its components, legislation and interested stakeholders are described in detail. The practical part is devoted to research of civil servants training in municipal authorities, which aims to identify the problem areas. The survey results pointed to 9 problems which are lack of funding, the problem of return on investment in education, low or inappropriately oriented motivation of public servants to further education, the quality of some educational institutions, respectively lecturers, difficult evaluation of the results and effects of education, ineffective rule of mandatory 18 training days for 3 years, proficiency test, position of management authorities to education and low effectiveness of e-learning education. At the end of the paper options for solving these problems are outlined.